H. Irish Returns to New England Hard Pan

Absence of Many Years. Tells Story of Interest.

The CITIZEN editor was favored with an interview with Mr. Geo. H. Irish, who is a cousin of Postmaster Irish, and now a citizen of Yakima, Washington, while he was visiting the editor at his home at the Falls recently. Mr. Irish is a native of Buckfield, a veteran of the Civil war, having enlisted in the 14th Maine Regiment. He is now visiting his native town for the first time in 30 years. Thirty-one years ago he went west, then a government appraiser on the lands, and located in Minnesota. Ten years ago he went to the Pacific coast, and became interested in the development of the town of Yakima, which is situated in the Yakima valley, at the Cascade mountains, and 200 miles from Seattle by rail. At the time Mr. Irish went there there was only two years old and its population numbered only 200. It now has a population of 1,500, and is the seat of an extensive farming community that brings the dependent population up to about 5,000. The territory is naturally arid and had no water until the government system of irrigation was put in. That redeemed the valley and now it is one of the richest and most fertile of the famous crop bearing valleys of the great mountains. Mr. Irish showed the editor pictures of the town and outlying territory, showing the farms stretching for a distance of six or seven miles along the irrigation canal, and while the land was level and the farms laid out in regular proportion, the houses and barns of all kinds presented a New England aspect, showing that the place was developed upon the Eastern style of the pictures. The pictures showed a range of mountains in the distance, which appeared to be mountains in fact, and some to the north, and to the west others were seen. They much resembled the mountains that rise immediately from the sea in which we live. Mr. Irish said that the mountains were not high enough to be called any of the Alps, and that they were 25 to 30 miles away from the coast. The peaks that are shown in the range are perpetual snow, and the valley no snow falls, and the climate is quite temperate and even during the year. It is not within the distance of the coast region. During the winter one of the objects of the country to the south, and immediately on the coast. The canal is now about eight miles long and waters 64,000 acres of land. The present is extending it and it eventually fertilize a vast area. From the base of the hills, above the canal, 25 or more miles away. The water in the canal is conducted to the fields by grooves or ditches, made in the soil to the depth of only a few inches and at a distance of about three feet. The water flowing through these grooves into the fields and adjacent to the canal, and in a manner that is not comprehended by the eastern farmer. At present no commercial fertilizers are used there and but little manure is used. Mr. Irish says that the invincible potato beetle, commonly called "potato bug" has not yet reached the place, and great crops of potatoes are raised there without much loss. All the ordinary garden truck and also many of the tropical and vegetable crops, and all kinds of fruits are raised, and apples of fine quality are plentiful, but because of the dry time it takes to get them into bearing other fruits are at present the most profitable crop. One grower, Alex. Smith, sold from 807 trees, 5 years old, $2,500 worth of fruit in one season. The town is banked, and the houses are built on the hills, and the streets are paved with gravel. The town is a beautiful place, and the people are very happy. Mr. Irish is engaged in the real estate business and is a leading and influential citizen in that far away sunny side valley between the mountains. The great Northern Pacific Railroad passes through the territory.

ST. ATHANASIUS CHURCH CROWDED.

Impressive Altar and Musical Ceremonies Sunday Morning.

Eloquently Delivered Sermon by Fr. Barry On The Transfiguration.

At St. Athanasius Roman Catholic church last Sunday morning there was a very large attendance at the ten o'clock mass. Following the altar and musical ceremonies, Rev. Father Barry, the resident priest read the pertinent parts of the new rules governing marriage among Catholics that were printed in the CITIZEN last week. In explanation to the new rule that declares marriages invalid, in the eyes of the church, that are contracted before a justice of the peace or a minister, he said: "Heretofore marriages performed by either a minister or a justice of the peace between two baptized persons have been considered valid by the church, but these new rules change that, and now the church will not consider marriages so contracted as of any validity. The marriage must be performed by the parish priest." Regarding the rule that designates the parish priest of the bride's parish, as the only one to perform the ceremony, he said: "Heretofore the groom or bride could select the priest from either parish. Now the priest in charge of the parish where the bride lives must officiate to make the contract valid in the eyes of the church." There are times when this rule may be disregarded, and he read the causes for which the rule might be set aside. He then delivered a short sermon in a very entertaining and impressive manner. After reading from the Scripture regarding the transfiguration, he spoke as follows in substance: "The gospel lesson that we learn from this is that our Lord and Master never imposes upon us any duties that he has not previously given us strength to bear. The disciples went to the garden of Gethsemane to see our Lord deserted by his heavenly father. They went there to see him in his human nature, and in his trials; and fearing that their faith in divinity and his divine nature would be shaken our Lord took the disciples up into the mountain. Heretofore they had known him as a friend, and even as a servant, but now they were to see the master in all his glory and power. At the transfiguration they saw Moses and Elias by his side and the face of Jesus shone like the sun, and his raiment was white as the light. As we partake of the sacrament we believe the Lord is our friend. If we could see the Lord face to face as did Peter, John and James then we would be better able to appreciate the fullness of the Godhead. We cannot see him in the tabernacle, yet by the eyes of faith we should be able to believe that he is there verily and corporally, and in a mysterious manner having his trial. He is in the tabernacle. He is there to receive our petitions, and our thanksgiving; to aid us, to strengthen us, and aid us to walk over the hard places of life successfully. We should try to see our Lord with Peter, James and John and then we can believe that he is in the tabernacle, and our hearts will acknowledge our Lord—our King. In remembrance of the holy season of Lent let us make an effort to attend the morning services throughout the holy season." Very interesting, but we have given enough to acquaint the people of this section with the wonders that can be done in a natural desert country, and how land that no man would have paid the tax on before the government system of irrigation was made operative, has been made worth from $150 to $200 per acre. While in Rumford, Mr. Irish met an old schoolmate in the person of Mr. Preston Low, whom he had not seen since they played together "upon the green" or in the snow, at Buckfield, some thirty years ago. He had not seen his host, Mr. Atwood, for more than twenty years. Mr. Irish is engaged in the real estate business and is a leading and influential citizen in that far away sunny side valley between the mountains. The great Northern Pacific Railroad passes through the territory.

FIREMAN'S RELIEF ASSO. WILL FORM.

Meeting Friday Night In Court Room.

Appointed Committee to Frame Constitution and By-Laws. Adjourned to Mar. 27.

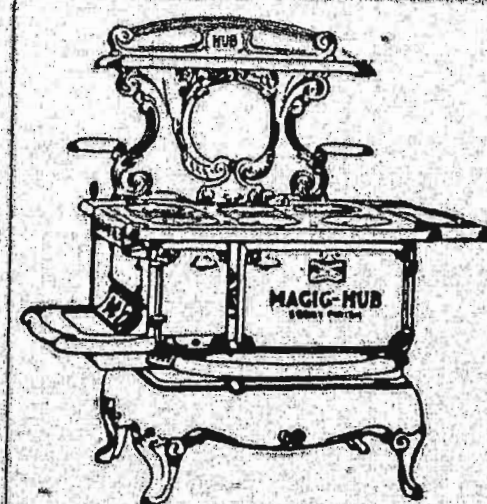

A call for a special meeting of the firemen of Rumford Falls for last Friday night was responded to by over forty men. The purpose of the meeting was to see what action they would take regarding the formation of a Fireman's Relief Association. James A. McMennamin was elected chairman, and Harry W. Derry secretary. After considerable discussion concerning the plan, it was voted that the chair appoint a committee of six to consider the matter, make a set of by-laws, and report at a later meeting. The following were appointed: Capt. H. H. Walker, Hose No. 1, Capt. James Hollis, Hose No. 2, Capt. Geo. G. Nadeau, Hose No. 3, Capt. Carl G. Thurston, Hose No. 4 and B. L. Bean of the Chemical, and R. E. Walker of the Hook and Ladder Co. Following this there occurred an animated discussion concerning the prospects of the corporation securing a combination ladder and chemical wagon. A committee was appointed to wait on the Chief and ascertain how he would assign the different companies if the combination wagon became a reality. The following committee was appointed: R. E. Walker, Levi Garrette, and Henry S. Woods. The meeting adjourned to meet in the court room, March 27. SCIENTIFIC UNDERTAKERS. Several weeks ago, Edol Polrie was stricken with heart failure and fell dead in a River street shop. His body was cared for by the Gauthier Undertaking Company. He had no home and no relatives, and the body laid in the undertaker's room on Exchange street for eight days. Under the skillful care of Mr. Vital Gilbert, the undertaker for the firm, the body showed improvement from day to day, and on the day it was finally laid away it had become very natural in appearance. The attention of the CITIZEN was called to this circumstance, and upon inquiry the reporter learned that Mr. Gilbert has been seventeen years in the business, having been with a Lewiston firm for nearly sixteen years. He was a coroner in Androscoggin County, and for some years secretary to the Board of Health in Lewiston. He came to Rumford Falls in October, 1900; and engaged with the Gauthier and McCrehan Co., as their undertaker. Not long after that, the firm of Gauthier and McCrehan was dissolved, and Mr. Gilbert and Mr. Cass Votter became partners in the furniture and undertaking business, with Mr. Arthur Gauthier, Mr. McCrehan retiring from the firm. Mr. Votter, who formerly was in the employ of the company, has made a special study of the science of caring for the dead, and recently passed an examination before the State Board of Undertakers at Augusta and received a rating of 98 per cent, a very flattering result. The division of the work in the undertaking line between Mr. Gilbert and Mr. Votter, is that Mr. Gilbert officiates at the funerals of Catholics, and Mr. Votter has charge of all others. The undertaking and the furniture business are conducted, so far as the business arrangements go, under the firm name of the Gauthier Furniture Company. Mr. Gilbert, when he was secretary to the Board of Health in Lewiston, started the movement for pure milk that has spread, and recently been acted favorably upon in this town. LIQUOR SEIZURE AT 47 CANAL STREET. Police officer Roach and Joseph Gagnon, constable, made a liquor seizure at 47 Canal street Saturday night. They seized two bottles of lager, and found two beer barrels with small quantities of beer, also a tin pot used for serving ale. A United States License, under the name of Peter Groskas, was found in the place, but no one giving that name. Stanley Mees and Michael Lucas were taken into custody, and Monday appeared in court, and by the advice of their attorney, Mr. Theriault, Lucas pleaded guilty and paid $100 and costs. Mees proved that he was only temporarily employed to clean up the floor, and the case against him was dropped.

A freight wreck on the railroad near Bethel Tuesday morning, while it did not seriously interfere with the business of the court, somewhat disturbed the orderly procedure of its opening. In consequence of the wreck, the two morning trains did not arrive until about noon, and the Bethel attorneys, and six or seven of the jury men, got into town after the close of the forenoon session. There was one unwelcome feature of the opening of the court in the absence of the chief of forty years' service, H. E. Hammond, who has been called to a higher court since the last term, and none but noted it with sorrow. Deputy Sheriff W. A. Bicknell of Norway filled the chief's place, and made the formal proclamations which are a part of the opening ceremony. Judge Whitehouse entered the court room promptly at 10 o'clock, and the wheels of justice began to revolve immediately. Prayer was offered by Rev. E. S. Cotton of Norway. The grand jury answered to their names and retired to their room to begin work, and the traverse juries were empaneled as follows:

J. W. Crommatt of Norway, who was drawn, was unable to be present on account of illness, and Charles C. Ellis of Canton, Richmond L. Melcher of Rumford, and M. W. Stearns of Lovell were excused by the court because of urgent business requiring their attention. More than the usual number of attorneys from other parts of the State were present at the opening, besides most of the members of the Oxford bar. Among the visitors present were Hon. Seth M. Carter, Mayor Frank A. Morey and A. T. L'Heureux of Lewiston, Hon. Henry W. Oakes of Auburn, Hon. G. N. Blanchard of Wilton, I. B. Clary of Livermore Falls, and Walter P. Perkins of Cornish. A trial list of about the average length was the outcome of the call of the docket which followed the organization of the cases for a trial a record was broken. Not one asked to have his case assigned to Tuesday of the second week. Indeed no one even asked to have his case put into the second week. It was evident that as far as trials were concerned, the list "hadn't"

A UNIQUE STORE IS THE "LITTLE YELLOW STORE."

Probably Isaac Allen has the most unique stock of goods kept in Oxford County. He makes a specialty of outfits for woodsmen and riverdrivers, and he keeps many lines of goods, both in garments and footwear, not obtainable elsewhere. Mr. Allen's acquaintance with the lumbermen is very extensive and his store is known far and near. See his advertisement of spring goods.

IT'S MEN, NOT PARTY.

Last week brought news of the conviction of republican grafters in Philadelphia; also the complete exposure of democratic leeches in Boston. It has been proven over and over again that dishonesty is not a party attribute, but an attribute of men.

What can we do to eliminate graft from the public service?

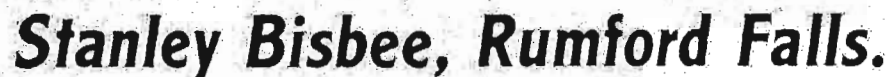

TRIED TO HANG HIMSELF.

Papensto, the Italian who was convicted and sentenced to two years in jail for murderous assault upon Marie A. Fausta, in the Smith's Crossing colony, attempted to commit suicide at the jail, in Paris, Friday night. He succeeded in suspending himself by the use of the hammock in his cell. He was discovered and rescued barely in time to prevent death. The case of this man presents some features of human interest. He is violently in love with this woman, who married another man, after having been more or less friendly with Papensto.

Papensto is of a fiery temperament and not large intellect, and his sense of outrage could find no other expression than in an assault upon the woman. His state of mind is akin to that of insanity, and his attempt to do away with himself shows that his misery is greater than he can bear.

The basis of representation will be as follows: Each city, town and plantation will be entitled to one delegate and for every 75 votes cast for the Republican candidate for Governor in 1906 an additional delegate, and for each fraction of 40 votes in excess of 75 votes, an additional delegate. Vacancies in the delegation of any city, town or plantation can only be filled by residents of the county in which vacancies exist.

HOW PROBLEMS ARE "SETTLED."

Problems of country wide and world round importance, of one kind and another, have challenged the wisdom of men in every age.

Very few of them have been amicably settled, and perhaps some may be said never to have been settled, in full, although some phases may have been.

Certain international political problems are "settled" merely by being adjusted for a limited time and various internal issues, like the slave territory question in this country, are "settled" by compromises, as was done in 1820.

Somebody has said that "no question is settled until it is settled right," yet it is doubtful if any question was ever settled right in the estimation of all parties concerned.

Many family, clan and semi-political feuds, in England and Scotland, were "settled" after a fashion, but there are many who feel that their forefathers were badly dealt with; and even now estrangements exist as heritages from the days of Campbell and Macgregor, but matters were adjusted and we do not expect to see clanish warfare renewed.

Once the religious societies were at war with each other and debauched the soil of every European country with blood in an effort to "settle" the disputed questions. The differences have been adjusted, but never settled, although each sect now pursues its way independently, and general harmony exists among them.

In our own country we have seen the money question, and the tariff question "settled," but in fact they have only been adjusted. The great question of negro slavery was "settled" by the emancipation proclamation, yet the race question is the legacy, and is no nearer settlement than forty years ago.

The last generation of men abolished lawful slavery, and we can not doubt that the action was wise; and its effect has been to uplift the hopes of mankind the world over.

But the abolition of slavery has left us the race question, that, few had the sagacity to see, was a greater one than slavery.

Rev. Smith Baker, of Portland, recently visited the south, and in a letter to the Portland Press stated very plainly the peculiar situation the black and white races find themselves in today.

With all these merely adjusted, and not rightly settled problems, of both country and world moment, we are confronted with the most serious problem that has ever engaged the attention of men.

We refer to the labor question, or the relation between the man who works for pay, and the man who employs for profit.

Heretofore when the periodical business depressions have hit the country, the causes have been attributed to certain acts or non-acts of government, and the energy of all has been taken up in attacking and defending certain party measures or men.

The greatest sufferers—the wage earners, did but little except suffer and listen.

Adjustment occurred, and business finally resuming normal conditions, the issue was dropped; but the problem was not settled. Now we find the country in the grasp of another spell of "hard times." There has been no change of parties, no new and radical laws made; and the country is overflowing with wealth, and products of toil and the soil, and men are looking into the causes a little sharper than before.

We now have men from among the wage earners, with printing presses, and tongues, and ideas, and they say the problem of hard times can never be settled by tinkering with the money and banking systems, or changing the tariff schedules.

They tell us that the remedy must be applied to the "false" economic methods that underlie and penetrate our business and governmental systems.

They claim that the wage earners and tillers of the soil, produce more every year than is consumed, and that every so often there occurs of necessity, a great surplus of merchandise in the warehouses of the world, and until it is reduced, the resumption of production, in full, can not be made profitable.

In the meanwhile, the wage earner, who has, as he went along, bought as much of his product as his wages would allow, has nothing to fall back upon; and although the country is full to overflowing with the product of his hand, he must suffer for the want of means to buy it back.

The owners of the surplus, they claim do not suffer from the depression in anything like the same proportion that the producers do, and some of them even benefit by it.

Their remedy is government ownership of all industries, and correspondence of wages to production and consumption; or some similar plan of equalization.

It is a seductive plea they make, but like all other problems, we fear it would be but another adjustment, and not settlement.

The general government has been sending out reports of statistics to the press of the country showing that the forests are being so rapidly depleted that at the outside, the lumber supply will be exhausted in 50 years. Apropos of this fact the Lewiston Sun hints that the tariff that prevents foreign lumber from coming into the country might be revoked and thereby extend the time limit for exhausting our own forests.

There is some good resulting from the picture postal fad. Among the mass of comic and vulgar cards, that are circulating, are a few motto and wise saying cards, and of late we notice the number of the latter is increasing. By the means of these cards, many persons will become familiar with the true and wise sayings of the great thinkers, both past and contemporary, who perhaps would not otherwise know of them, and all will have their memories refreshed, regarding them. These sayings are valuable for they embody the experience and observation of men whose lives were and are, worth studying, and profiting by in many things.

The Salvation Army, or a branch of it is at work at Rumford Falls and is getting stronger support than at previous times when they have tried in vain to get a foot hold in town. The officer in charge, Capt. Rupert H. Veinot called at our office this week and in reply to our question "Are you going to be here permanently?" said, "If we can make good." Those who desire the army in town will have an opportunity to help them "make good." We see no reason why the army should not succeed here as well as in the places where they have been supported for years.

All orchardists should give their trees a thorough looking over for brown tail moth nests at this time. The nests are not like ordinary caterpillar nests. They are small and tightly woven and often obscured by the dried leaves that form the basis of the little house in which the infant and dormant larva live through the winter. If nests are found and it is uncertain whether they are of this kind or not they may be sent to the CITIZEN office for identification.

We hear that there is a movement to elect Corporation Assessors independently this spring. That is, men not on the board of selectmen. The past policy has been to elect the two selectmen who reside in the district. So far as we can learn there is no fault to be laid at the door of the Assessors, and we can not learn just what prompts the new movement.

It is not always easy to tell the motives that prompt men to certain acts, and we will not vouch for the virtuous intention of the man whom we know bought up all the visible supply of a certain picture card in town. All we can say is that the picture on the card came near the limit permitted by the law.

GNAWED PEDDLER'S FINGER AS A DOG WOULD A BONE.

An Italian giving the name of Pigeon, was arrested on complaint of a peddler Monday, charged with assault upon the latter.

A dispute arose over the price of some junk that the peddler had purchased from Pigeon, and in the scuffle Pigeon got the peddler's finger into his mouth and fearfully mangled it. The finger looked as though a dog had gnawed it at his leisure.

The case was tried before Judge Stearns Monday afternoon and by arrangement with counsel the complaint was not acknowledged satisfaction. The respondent paid for a garment belonging to the complainant. He was fined five dollars and seven cents, and discharged.

SAVED A $170.00 MARE WHEN A VETERINARY FAILED TO CURE HER.

"While serving as an officer on the steamship Montezuma, which carried horses and mules to South Africa," writes Mr. G. H. H. Rowe, of Sparta, Ill., "I saw Sloan's Sure Colic Cure used on the horses and never saw a case of colic prove too much for it."

"We had 1,250 horses on board for over a month, so that we had a good opportunity to test the remedy thoroughly."

"The veterinary used Sloan's Liniment, also, for sore shoulders and sprains, and the horses were landed in a particularly fine condition."

"I know of another case here in Sparta, Ill., where Sloan's Sure Colic Cure saved a $170 mare after the veterinary had failed to cure her."

COL. F. E. BOOTHBY CANDIDATE FOR GOVERNOR.

Portland Man Enters The Contest For Republican Nomination.

The announcement of Colonel Fredrick E. Boothby's candidacy for the Republican nomination for Governor was made last Saturday and was read with interest by his many friends throughout the State.

Mr. Boothby was born in Norway, December 3, 1845 and educated in the schools of Waterville, whither his father removed. He was for a time assistant postmaster at Waterville. In 1866 he entered the employ of the Maine Central as general ticket agent. After the consolidation of the roads he was appointed paymaster and general auditor, and 1874 he became general passenger agent, a position he has held ever since. He was a member of the staffs of Governors Bodwell, Marble and Burleigh, in all six years, and he was for four years president of the Portland Board of Trade. He is a member of several fraternal and social organizations, he has travelled widely and is a man of varied accomplishments and broad intelligence. In the State particularly his acquaintance is extensive, and he is well known and well liked everywhere.

In announcing his candidacy, Mr. Boothby said: "I have had many letters from various parts of Maine and interviews with many men in Portland who have urged me to become a candidate for the Republican nomination for Governor. I have given the matter my consideration and have finally said to my friends that if they desired it I would allow them to use my name. I shall also in reply to the letters I have received from various parts of Maine announce my candidacy."

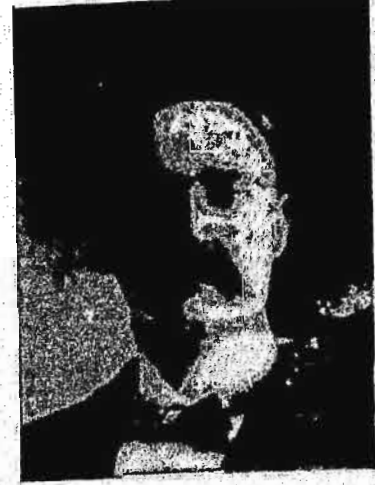

"I realize that I am entering the contest for this nomination at a late day. It is usually the custom for a man who seeks a nomination for Governor of Maine to lay his plans months and even years in advance. He visits all the prominent men in the State and seeks their support and undoubtedly obtains promises of support from many of them long before the general public knows he is to be a candidate. For this reason the late comer in the field is handicapped and may find that many who would otherwise welcome his candidacy are tied up by pledges made months and even years in advance."

"In this case I am actuated, not so much by personal ambition as I am by a desire to meet with the wishes of my friends all over Maine. I appreciate the handicap I am laboring under in announcing myself at this late day as a candidate for the Republican nomination but I have assurances that I will be welcomed in the field and I shall go before the people of this State with one advantage anyway—I have not been a candidate long enough to make any promises or to tie myself up with any special interests."

"As to the platform on which I shall base my candidacy I have only to say: I believe in the wisdom and good judgment of the people of Maine and I know that they want a good conservative, business administration of public affairs. As to the questions which have agitated this State for years I have only to say that the legislative branch of our State is thoroughly competent to handle these issues."

"It seems to me that the whole tendency now seems to be to take away from the people the power of government, to remove as far as possible from the common people the right to say what sort of a government they shall have. I do not favor legislation of this kind. I have been brought up in a community where every citizen has the right of expressing his views upon all questions and where his expressions on public matters have been given due consideration. The common people of this State are to be relied upon. Their judgment about all matters is usually in the end the right solution of all problems and if I should be honored by the Republican nomination for Governor of Maine I should want to stand upon a platform which would recognize, to the fullest extent, this inherent right of the common people to govern themselves, their own counties and their municipalities as they see fit."

"It will at once be charged that I am a corporation candidate. My many years of service with the Maine Central railroad will at once be considered to have placed me on the side of the corporate interests as against the people of Maine. To such critics as those I anticipate will be heard from, I feel that I can with some degree of pride point out the fact that for three successive terms I served the largest city in this State as its mayor and I was never charged by its people—certainly as intelligent community as there is in

EXPERIENCE
COUNTSWho Knows Not The Way Is A Dangerous Guide.

Experience is what we know and what we have got through going about. There is a period of experiment,—just feeling your way. That comes in any undertaking. Our great Nation is built on experience. What our fathers learned we do not have to learn over again. It is absolutely necessary to avoid bad results. We seek educated physicians when sick and experienced dentists for the teeth and old men when we go to law. We employ only expert dressmakers, milliners and carpenters, and reliable, and financially able to back himself up.

Yet how strange that people of sense, who should know better, employ a travelling man to examine their eyes and run such a risk of having them spoiled, when they can employ an Optician with life long practice and reliable, and financially able to back himself up.

The study of the eye has been my life study and with fully equipped office and most costly instruments for the careful and correct testing of the eyes, I challenge a travelling man to do the work and show as many tests as I give in all severe cases, ask you who have doubts to call and have them cleared up.

Big cut in prices of Glasses, Watches, Rings, Chains, Field glasses, Violins given away. Call and find out the plan.

Dr. F. F. Bartlett, Oculist, Rumford Falls, Me.

"KIN" WORK IT.

A busy Lawrence citizen recently added a telephone to the modern improvements at his home. He has four happy children, all of them young, to whom the phone was new and who regarded it with awe. One of the kids is a boy of four. He watched the older people call up "Central" and communicate with friends at distant points and yearned to do likewise.

His mother chanced to be absent from home for an hour or so on a recent afternoon. The other children were out somewhere. His was alone. For a half hour he watched the telephone, then climbed up and took the receiver of the phone off the hook just as he had seen the older people do. By that time he was trembling, but his courage was as strong as chilled steel.

"Number?" he heard a sweet voice inquire. For a moment he was startled, but he conquered a desire to drop the receiver and ran and shouted bravely, "I want my pop!"

"Central" must have recognized the voice as that of a child. She promptly inquired, "Who is your papa?"

The little fellow knew enough to tell her and it was but a matter of a few moments to ascertain the number of the busy Lawrence citizen's business phone and connect the four-year-old.

"Hello!" answered the busy citizen, turning away from a desk overburdened with papers and things.

"Oh, pop, I kin work it!" was the joyful little shout that answered him, and the busy citizen was just as proud and as pleased as the four-year-old of the other end of the line when the brief conversation ceased and the boy obeying instructions given over the wire, hung up the receiver and awaited the home-coming of mamma to tell her of his conquest.—Lawrence Tribune.

MORAL—If you are a traveling man, and have a wife and children at home, picture pleasure at their hearing your voice before they go to bed. "Kin you work it?" Look for a "Blue Bell" Pay Station Sign, and you'll get the answer.

Maine—with having misused my office to further the interests of any corporation, be it a railroad of any other, against the interests of the people. On the other hand I claim that having in these many years come into close contact with all the prominent business men of the State I know their needs and appreciate their desires as well as does any other man in Maine. There is hardly a hamlet in this State which I have not visited and in the greater part of them I have friends. The requirements of all sections are well understood by me and I am certain that the business men of Maine would recognize the fact that were I in the executive office of this great State their interests would be safeguarded by one familiar with their affairs."

Col. Boothby has three times served as mayor of Portland and was for five successive terms president of the Portland Board of Trade. Hundreds of letters have been written him from all parts of Maine, urging him to run for Governor and it has been only after considerable pressure was brought to bear upon him that he consented to announce his candidacy. He has received pledges of support from all parts of the State and an active campaign in his behalf will be carried on in his interest.

HOME-MADE MIXTURE CURES RHEUMATISM.

Many Can Be Happy.

Tells How Any One Can Prepare Simple Home-Made Mixture.

There is so much Rheumatism here in our neighborhood now that the following advice by an eminent authority, who writes for readers of a large Eastern daily paper, will be highly appreciated by those who suffer:

Get from any good pharmacy one-half ounce Fluid Extract Dandelion, one ounce Compound Kargon, three ounces of Compound Syrup Sarsaparilla. Shake these well in a bottle and take in teaspoonful doses after each meal and at bedtime, also drink plenty of good water.

It is claimed that there are few victims of this dread and tortuous disease who will fail to find ready relief in this simple home-made mixture, and in most cases a permanent cure is the result.

This simple recipe is said to strengthen and cleanse the eliminative tissues of the kidneys so that they can filter and strain from the blood and system the poisons, acids and waste matter, which cause not only Rheumatism, but numerous other diseases. Every man or woman here who feels that their kidneys are not healthy and active, or who suffers from any urinary trouble whatever, should not hesitate to make up this mixture, as it is certain to do much good, and may save you from much misery and suffering after while.

Our home druggists say they will either supply the ingredients or mix the prescription ready to take if our readers ask them.

STATE OF MAINE TAX COM-MISSION.

Dear Sirs:
The Tax Commission, appointed last fall by Governor Cobb, under and by virtue of the Resolve passed by the Legislature of 1907, to investigate the entire subject of Taxation and report their recommendations for such changes as seem advisable to the next Legislature, desire the assistance of the Board of Assessors of every city town and plantation in Maine. From time to time we shall take the liberty to send to you blanks for supplying us such information as can only be obtained from you.

At the present time we desire to call your attention to the method to be adopted by you in valuing all real estate as of April 1, 1908. The Tax Commission desires to obtain the total valuation of all classes of property within the State, and it is absolutely necessary that in valuing real estate you should place the value on land and on building in separate columns. We believe it to be the only method by which you can arrive at fairly accurate valuation of the real estate in your town. Of course we do not care to have a copy of your valuation but only the totals, that is—we desire to know the total value of the land, and the total value of the buildings in your town. We believe if you will adopt this method in valuing the real estate in your town it will prove not only a great assistance to you in arriving at a fairly accurate valuation, but a great accommodation to us.

Thanking you in advance, I am,
Very truly yours,
MORRILL N. DREW,
Chairman.

COURT PROCEEDINGS.

much meat in it." Judge Whitehouse was very prompt in disposing of the assignments as the cases were taken up one by one, and when the work was done, the list was all assigned in the first week of the term. This practically completed the first day's work.

Wednesday morning after the train had arrived and a consultation of attorneys had been held, the case of George Hazen vs. Benjamin N. Dudley and Rose Dudley was opened. Hon. J. M. Libby of Mechanic Falls appeared for the plaintiff, and Hon. James S. Wright for the defense. Mr. Hazen is an attorney and real estate agent in Oxford and this suit was brought to recover $55.00, commission at the usual rate of 5 per cent, for the sale of a farm at Welchville belonging to the defendants. The farm was sold in the summer of 1906 to Charles W. Sanborn of Otisfield, as Mr. Hazen claims through his agency. After the plaintiff's side of the case had been heard, which took only about three-quarters of an hour, the court announced a ten minute recess. The ten minutes lengthened out into about half an hour, and when business was resumed, Judge Whitehouse informed the jury that the matter had been settled between the parties, and there would be no occasion for further consideration of it.

Arguments were then heard by the court in the case of George W. Gorman, petitioner for review, vs. C. H. Eaton. There was litigation between the parties in the Rumford Falls Municipal Court, and a suit brought by Eaton against Gorman was appealed to the Supreme Judicial Court. Later it was defeated, the debt being about $17, but the added costs making the total amount about $50. Gorman now says he was out of the state when the case was defeated, and did not understand that a case was pending against him, supposing that it had been settled, and he wants a retrial of it. The petition for review was argued by L. W. Blanchard in Gorman's behalf, and was opposed by N. G. Foster. After the hearing Judge Whitehouse granted the petition for review.

The test of the day Wednesday was pretty quiet, only two or three minor matters being heard, and when court opened Thursday morning, it was found that every thing assigned for trial that day had been settled, so that, although business was being rapidly disposed of, to the spectators it seemed that Thursday was a day of "nothing doing."

As far as civil business was concerned, Friday was a repetition of Thursday, all the cases assigned for the day being settled out of court.

Criminal Business.

Soon afterward the prisoners in jail awaiting their term were brought in to plead to the indictments against them.

George Yelbert and Joe Gilbert pleaded not guilty to an indictment charging forgery and uttering. It appeared by going the history of the case that the two men, who are transient Frenchmen, came out of the woods and while at Rumford Falls a gay creek belonging to one of them was raised from two dollars to ninety dollars, and used for the purchase of goods, a balance being paid to them in cash. They were arrested the same day, and practically all the money was recovered. Mr. Wright appeared in behalf of Yelbert, and after some consideration of the case Yelbert retracted his plea and pleaded guilty, and was sentenced to three months in the county jail. The case against Joe Gilbert was not grossed.

John Antonio of Rumford Falls pleaded not guilty of assault with intent to maim, and Josephine Wilson and Hattie Wilson of Porter pleaded not guilty to the charge of obstructing an officer. This latter indictment resulted from an affair which created more or less excitement in the town of Porter about three weeks since.

Ostino Paparato of Rumford Falls, indicted for assault with intent to kill, pleaded not guilty. The assault was made with a razor upon an Italian woman at Rumford Falls, the cause being said to be jealousy. It appeared that the woman assaulted had formerly lived with Paparato as his wife for some time. Mr. Wright appeared for Paparato, and after the facts of the case had been briefly considered, Paparato retracted his plea and pleaded guilty. He was sentenced to two years in State prison.

Friday's case which perplexed the court was that of Bertha West. This girl, who is now eighteen years of age, was indicted on adultery at the October term of court in 1906. She was then sent to the insane hospital for observation, and somewhat later was discharged from that institution as not being insane, but affected with a quality technically called nymphomania. Since that time various attempts have been made to do something with her, but she has proved utterly incorrigible, and a few months since, getting into difficulty in Portland, she was sent here and committed to jail to await action on the indictment in this county.

The girl was arraigned and pleaded guilty. Lengthy consideration of the matter was given by Judge Whitehouse, and finally, recognizing that the State has no institution especially designed for such cases he sentenced her to state prison for two years, as the most satisfactory solution of the problem.

Saturday morning the cases remaining on the civil trial list were speedily disposed of, and the civil business of the term was practically completed. Over one hundred cases had gone off the docket and there had been no trial, one side only on one small case having been heard before it was withdrawn from the jury.

The way was then clear for the criminal business to proceed, but it did not seem possible to start it rapidly. Two continued cases were first called.

Paul Ross of Rumford Falls, who had pleaded guilty to a nuisance indictment in October, was placed in the dock, and after some debating regarding his case, County Attorney Barnes stated that he was satisfied that Ross was not now in the liquor business, and the case was continued.

Victor Lester of Rumford Falls, who had also pleaded guilty to a nuisance indictment in October, next appeared. Mr. McCarthy was his attorney. After some examination of him, Mr. Barnes stated that he was not satisfied that he was out of the liquor business, and a fine of $100 was imposed upon him. He could not pay and went to jail for thirty days.

The roll was then called on the term's indictments, and a line of respondents reaching from the dock to the door responded. The line included Abraham Klain, Daisy Davis, Rose Barrett, Lawrence Lavergne, Nicholas Gentile, James McPhee, Joseph Paradis, Charlie Hammond, Peter Perry, Howard McPhee, and Edward J. Pike. In each case Mr. McCarthy entered a plea of not guilty without the formality of reading the indictment, but as he was not prepared for trial on any of them that day, they went over to Monday. Subsequently Mrs. Daisy Davis retracted her plea and pleaded guilty, and the case against her was continued and she was allowed to go.

Bonds were defaulted in a few cases of respondents who had not appeared, and the court then took up the case of Ed. Eichles of Rumford Falls, who was indicted for attempting to bribe an officer. Eichles pleaded guilty, and County Attorney Barnes stated that he should not move for sentence. Judge Whitehouse wished to learn something of the case, and Eichles was picked on the stand to relate his story.

Eichles, who is a good appearing man and is superintendent of the packing department in the paper bag factory, told of being in the office of Deputy Sheriff H. L. Elliott on business, and said he told Mr. Elliott that he had a chance to buy the Tucker place at Rumford Falls, and asked if he could run it and be protected, but Mr. Elliott told him he could not.

On cross-examination by Mr. Barnes, Eichles denied making any further proposition to Mr. Elliott, and Judge Whitehouse asked him why he pleaded guilty, and said that he did not want to accept a plea of guilty to an act which he did not commit.

Deputy Sheriff Elliott was then placed on the stand, and said that Eichles made him a proposition to divide with him the profits of the place, after paying necessary expenses and a salary equal to what he was getting in the mill.

Eichles was advised to change his plea and accordingly pleaded not guilty. A trial in the afternoon was arranged for, but at the afternoon session it was decided to continue the case. Judge Whitehouse read the statute applying to the case, which provides a heavy penalty, and said that he did not believe the respondent, if he made the proposition to the sheriff as alleged, realized the enormity of the offense, and allowed Eichles to go on his own recognizance.

John Antonio, who committed an assault upon an Italian fellow-workman in a Rumford Falls mill with a skeleton, but was prevented from doing injury by third parties, retracted his former plea of not guilty, and pleaded guilty, saying that he was drunk when it was done. Mr. McCarthy appeared for him. He was sentenced for one year in state prison.

Monday morning Edward Soddard of Rumford Falls was committed to jail to begin a sentence of sixty days on a liquor case appealed from the Rumford Falls court.

The Everett Murder Trial.

The second trial of Wallace G. Everett of Paris, charged with the murder of Edgar L. Radcliffe of the same town, will be held this week. There has been much speculation regarding this case, but it is now set down for Tuesday morning of this week, no motion for either change of venue or continuance having been made. A special venire of 50 takers from this trial has been summoned from the towns and in the numbers as follows: Hebron 2, Woodstock 3, Backfield 2, Stoneham 2, Fryeburg 3, Lovell 3, Gilead 2, Bethel 3, Hartford 2, Andover 3, Peru 3, Canton 4, Dixfield 4, Mexico 2, and Rumford 8.

Following the Everett case what criminal business remains will be taken up, and this will probably occupy a few days. Judging from the former trial, the Everett case will take up at least this week, so it is likely that the end of the term will come some time next week.

The Everett trial which has attracted much attention both outside and inside the county, was called Tuesday morning. Fifty-five takers had been drawn in addition to the two regular juries. The drawing of jurors began about 10:00 and was continued until 12:30. Forty-seven men were examined before twelve which were acceptable to both state and defense were secured.

The following are the jury:

Alton L. McAllister, Stoneham.
M. M. Hathaway, Woodstock.
B. F. Bidlon, Porter.
Elisha T. Sampson, Hartford.
Cyrus T. Bonney, Canton.
Woodman Charles, Fryeburg.
Ernest H. Morrill, Mason.
H. H. Crockett, Woodstock.
Ellis Delano, Canton.
Dana Richards, Mexico.
W. W. Goodwin, Mexico.
Fred C. Davis, Fryeburg.

Judge Whitehouse appointed Elia DeLano of Canton as foreman.

The jurors were placed under Deputy Sheriffs, J. Melvin Bartlett of Stoneham and Clarence W. Shaw of Backfield and are domiciled at the Andrews House.

For the second time, Wallace G. Everett is on trial, being charged with the murder of Edgar Radcliffe at Paris Hill, on the night of June 13, 1907.

In brief the story of the case is as follows:

On the night of June 13, 1907, a telephone message was received at So. Paris from Everett who was employed as a watchman at the Crocker Hill mine, so-called, stating that a man had been blown up in the dynamite house there. The sheriff, with a physician and the coroner at once drove to the scene of the supposed accident. There on the ground, a short distance from where the small dynamite store house had been located, they found Radcliffe. He lived for about an hour, dying without regaining consciousness.

According to the story of Everett there had been a series of thefts at the mine plant and on the night in question he had seen a man stealthily approaching the property. He had followed him until at last he had him in the dynamite house. He then fastened the door upon the outside, bracing a piece of timber against it. This done, he started for the mill to telephone for an officer. Before he reached the phone he heard a terrific explosion, so he pined the message, already mentioned. Acting under the direction of the officers, he remained at the mill until they arrived, when he accompanied them to the scene of the explosion, where Radcliffe's body was found.

A coroner's inquest was held and the jury decided that death was due to the accidental explosion of the dynamite. Arrangements were then made for burying the remains.

At the time of the explosion and inquest, County Attorney Barnes of Norway was away. On his return home, the day of the funeral, he heard the story. Something aroused his suspicions. He instructed the undertaker to hold the funeral, but not to bury the remains. Acting under these instructions the body after the services, was taken to the undertaker's rooms and an autopsy performed. The result of this examination the County Attorney that he was warranted in the proceeding further, so when the grand jury next assembled, he presented the evidence and an indictment against Everett was the result.

The case was tried in October 1907 and resulted in a disagreement of the jury, which brings it over to the present term of court for Oxford County.

The Trial.

At 2:30 p. m. Tuesday afternoon, County Attorney Barnes opened the case for the State. He expressed his appreciation of the seriousness of the case and reminded the jury that it was his duty to present facts and their duty to consider them. He stated that since but two persons were in the vicinity of the mine on that fatal night one of whom is dead and the other the respondent in the case, circumstantial evidence must necessarily form the basis on which a decision is to be arrived at.

He reviewed the case in substance as stated above and said that after the report of the coroner's jury the day after the explosion it was supposed that the case was finished but when the undertaker found a large cut on the throat and the same was shown to the family they declared that Radcliffe had been murdered and the county of Oxford said, Stay! Investigate!

The County Attorney said the State eliminates all other persons in the case except Wallace G. Everett, and in charging him with the crime it must look for a motive and such motive is found in that root of all evil—money. In reference to the insurance question Mr. Barnes called attention to the fact that on May 1, 1905, young Radcliffe applied for a $1000 policy which was issued on May 8 naming Radcliffe's estate as the beneficiary. In July this policy was assigned to Everett. In August a policy for $2500 naming Everett was applied for by Radcliffe which policy was refused. Later a policy for that amount was issued to Radcliffe running to his estate; still later this policy was assigned to Everett. Subsequently this last policy was allowed to expire because of non-payment of premiums. Steps were taken for the renewal and on June 11, 1907 the policy was renewed and the insurance extended to July 4. Then on July 4, without further payment of premiums the death of Ed. Radcliffe would bring $2500 to Everett. On the night of June 13th, two days later, or about 9:15 p. m., Everett and Radcliffe are alone near the mine at Crocker mountain. Radcliffe steps into the little dynamite house, Everett closes and fastens the door and leaves him there. A few minutes later an explosion and Radcliffe is dead. The desire for and the need of money and the chance to get $3500 on Radcliffe's death the State claims as the motive for this awful deed.

Witnesses.

Walter L. Gray of South Paris was the first witness called by the State. Mr. Gray testified that he is a surveyor and made the plan of that portion of Crocker mountain where the tragedy occurred. The plan was produced and fully explained as to distances, ascents, descents, etc., and Mr. Gray was excused to be called later.

Scott O. Colby of Paris was called and testified that he lived in the same house with his father in the upper tenement on the road leading from Paris Hill to Backfield about one and one-half miles from Paris Hill and within one-half mile of the mine where the tragedy occurred. Radcliffe was employed by witness during the spring of 1907 and boarded with the witness's father up to the night of the explosion. Saw Radcliffe when he left the house about 7 o'clock on the night of the explosion. Wore his best clothes and carried away a bundle, presumably his washing. Had known of Radcliffe having liquor about the premises at least once. Heard an explosion about 9:15 p. m. Witness said

Everett had called to see Radcliffe at least twice during the spring and Radcliffe went away with him each time. Witness paid Radcliffe $15.00 per month and wages were taken up as fast as earned. Asked Everett next morning if Radcliffe said anything or tried to get out after being locked into dynamite house and Everett said no not at first but after he had started away heard him swear.

Charles H. Colby testified that Ed. boarded with him up to the time of his death. That supper was served at 5:15 on June 13, that after supper he milked, separated the milk and left the house about 7 o'clock.

Cross examined by Mr. Swasey, witness knew positively that supper was served at 5:15 and could remember of what it consisted but was quite a bit perplexed when asked to tell the hour of other meals of that week or what was had for supper on June 12th or 14th. He denied that Ed. ate any apples on the 13th but admitted that it was possible for him to have done so without witness's knowledge. Saw Ed. carry a bundle away and supposed it was his washing.

At 5:45 court adjourned.

In the evening an interesting and enthusiastic temperance meeting was held at the court house. Speeches were made by Hon. J. S. Wright, Judge Whitehouse, R. C. Bowler, R. L. Taylor and several others.
